If your travels take you elsewhere within Portugal, a total of seven Dom Pedro hotels are found in Lisbon, Madeira and on the Algarve coast. Visit dompoko.com.

While in Barbados, you might want to take in the island’s latest visitor attraction—the Barbados Concorde Experience, which showcases the iconic delta wing aircraft that travelled at twice the speed of sound (37 kilometres per minute) at an altitude of 18,000 metres. Only 20 were manufactured and one now sits in Barbados in a US$3.5-million facility that boasts an interactive flight school, a departure lounge, an observation deck and an in-flight experience multimedia presentation designed by Science North in Sudbury, Ontario in collaboration with Reich + Petch Design International. The facility is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is $35 (Bds) for adults and $25 for children. Visit barbados.org.
